

Nature Rx: Justin Bogardus, Jed Lazar, Joe Victorine, ©Dream Tree Film & Productions | 2015 | 1 min.

This award-winning comedy series is about a struggle affecting many of us today. Set in the world of a spoofed prescription drug commercial, Nature Rx offers a hearty dose of laughs and the outdoors – two timeless prescriptions for whatever ails you. Side effects may include confidence, authenticity, remembering you have a body, and being in a good mood for no apparent reason.

Thousand Year Journey: Kenny Laubbacher | 2015 | 4 min.

Jedidiah Jenkins quit a job that he loved to ride his bicycle from Oregon to the southern tip of Patagonia. Friend and filmmaker Kenny Laubbacher joined him for a month and a half to pose the question “why?” Jenkins’ poignant answers are woven together with sun-soaked travel footage and shots of life on the move in this short film about shattering routines, staying open-hearted and keeping the flames of inspiration not just burning, but raging. The Thousand Year Journey is a paean to travel, adventure and, as Jenkins puts it, “turning your 100 years on this planet into 1,000.”

Mile for Mile: James Q Martin | 2015 | 15 min.

Ultrarunners Krissy Moehl, Jeff Browning and Luke Nelson run 106 miles through the newly opened Patagonia Park in Chile, to celebrate and highlight Conservacion Patagonica’s efforts to re-wild and protect this vast landscape.

Our Canyon Lands: Justin Clifton | 2015 | 34 min.

Home to a vibrant array of native american cultures, intact archaeological sites and some of the most stunning landscapes in the world, the Canyon Lands of Utah have become the playground of adventurous souls who love and appreciate the wonder of wild places. It has also become the target of greedy industrialists, who threaten to turn our treasured parks into islands, our canyons into roaring hydrocarbon highways and our rivers into endangered arteries among vast swaths of oil and gas development, uranium and potash mining bordering Canyonlands National Park.

Safe Passages: Protecting Our Sonoran Desert Wildlife Linkages: 5 min.

A film by the Coalition for Sonoran Desert Protection! The Sonoran Desert's wildlife linkages are threatened by new roads and new development. Wildlife habitat is becoming more fragmented and it is harder for animals to move through the landscape to find food, mate, and raise young. The Coalition for Sonoran Desert Protection in Tucson, AZ is tackling this problem with great success, including the recent construction of the Sonoran Desert's first vegetated wildlife bridge.

Sagebrush Sisters: Oregon Natural Desert Association, Wahoo Films | 2015 | 7 min

Join three intrepid women, from ages 65 to 80, as they hike more than 50 miles following a pronghorn migration path across the high desert. The Greater Hart-Sheldon Region on the Oregon-Nevada border is a wildlife stronghold in the sagebrush sea, and these women hope to keep it that way.

Defined by the Line: Rebecca Cahall, Alex Lowther, Jimmy Hooper | 2015 | 7 min.

Josh Ewing began visiting the Bears Ears region of southeastern Utah to climb at Indian Creek and explore the local archaeology. But when he moved to the town of Bluff, he saw degradation from oil drilling, looting, and careless visitors. Ewing knew simply loving a place was no longer enough.

The Last Dragons: Jeremy Monroe, David Herasimtschuk | 2015 | 10 min.

An intimate glimpse at North America’s Eastern Hellbender, an ancient salamander that lives as much in myth as in reality.... and in many waters, myths are all that remain of these stream-dwelling sentinels.

In Current: Ryan Heffernan, Grayson Schaffer, Ben Knight, Talweg Creative | 2015 | 5 min.

Rowing a dory in the Grand Canyon is considered by some as the most coveted job in the world. It can take 20 years of paying your dues to earn a seat on one of these legendary wooden boats. Amber Shannon has been boating the Grand Canyon nine years, trying to work her way from the baggage boat to a dory, while spending as many days possible in current.

Martin’s Boat: Peter McBride | 2015 | 24 min.

Honoring the legacy of Martin Litton, this film follows the newest boat in the Grand Canyon Dories fleet, the Marble Canyon, on its maiden voyage down the legendary Colorado River through the grandest canyon on Earth. Martin pioneered whitewater dorries on the Colorado River in the 1960’s and started a proud tradition of naming the boats after wild places that had been lost or compromised by the hand of man.
